

This technical drawing shows a side view of a mechanical component, possibly a valve or actuator. It features a long, slender vertical stem. The top section is a complex assembly with a rounded, dome-like top. This top section includes a central vertical passage, a horizontal flange with four bolt holes, and a side-mounted actuator or handle mechanism. The drawing is a line art representation, showing the outlines and internal features of the component.

[illegible]